DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 7/10/2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 22-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 4992944.

US 4992944 discloses all the limitations of the instant claims including; a first code part, said first code part 10 being rotated continuously by rotation of the adjustment shaft and comprising a code wheel, and a second code part 10, said second code part comprising a sliding part in the form of a code rack. Note column 4, lines 10-

15. A rotary encoder necessarily has a code wheel and shaft, and the straight moving member of line 15 is readable on the code rack as broadly defined by the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 22-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 4934474.

US 4934474 discloses a device including; a first part 15, said first part 15 being rotated continuously by rotation of the adjustment shaft, and a second part 16, said second part comprising a sliding part in the form of a rack. See figure 1. US 4934474 lack the explicit disclosure of the details of the sensors, particularly a code wheel for the rotary sensor 15 and a code rack for the linear sensor 16. The Examiner takes official notice that encoded parts are well known in the art of sensors. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize code parts in the sensors of US 4934474 as a well known and art recognized suitable means of sensing position, thereby ensuring accurate sensing and control of the steering system. Also note In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960) regarding the obviousness of art recognized suitable structures/devices.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 7/10/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments, the recitation of the brake features have not been given patentable weight because the recitation occurs in the preamble and/or the recitation appears to be intended use. Note a preamble is generally not accorded any patentable weight where it merely recites the purpose of a process or the intended use of a structure, and where the body of the claim does not depend on the preamble for completeness but, instead, the process steps or structural limitations are able to stand alone. See In re Hirao, 535 F.2d 67, 190 USPQ 15 (CCPA 1976) and Kropa v. Robie, 187 F.2d 150, 152, 88 USPQ 478, 481 (CCPA 1951) Also note that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. The intended use recitation does not appear to impart any structural limitations to the sensor structure. It is maintained that the steering shafts of the applied references are readable on the "adjustment shaft" as broadly defined by the claim language. Note that amending the limitation "the adjustment shaft" in the body of the claim to "the adjustment shaft of the disc brake" such as recited in claim 3 would define over the rejections of record.

Regarding the statement of official notice in the last office action, it is noted that Applicant has not traversed the statement. The statement is therefore taken as admitted prior art. See MPEP 2144.03(C).
